Mrs. A. E. Padgett returns this week after a delightful visit to her daughter, Mrs. Norwood Cleveland at Marietta and her sister, Mrs. Yeldell at Greenwood.

Miss Helen Tillman will go to Columbia this afternoon to spend several days. A number of receptions have been planned for her by friends in Columbia this week.

Miss Helen Dorn left for Seneca on Tuesday where she will teach the music school. Miss Dorn is a graduate in Normal Music of Coker College and will be well fitted for this position.

Mr. W. A. Pardue is carrying forward with dispatch the work on the handsome residence of Mr. J. G. Holland on Columbia street. When completed this will be one of the best appointed and most attractive homes in Edgefield.

Mr. M. A. Taylor was disappointed in not receiving coal at the time its arrival was expected on account of its seizure or confiscation for its own use by the railroad. Mr. Taylor can not make deliveries until the railroad delivers the coal to him.

The orchestra of the Baptist church which is now composed of five musicians, Miss Rosela Parker, Miss Ruth Lyon, Miss Annie Wilson, Mr. G. F. Mims and Mr. Claude Lyon, adds greatly to the church services. It will also play at the prayer meeting services hereafter.

A modern cold storage plant is being installed in the Jackson Market which will enable them to carry a larger supply of fresh meat without the use of ice, the plant being kept at a low temperature by the use of modern machinery. This is something entirely new for Edgefield.

Miss Susan Adams of Meeting Street has come to Edgefield to attend the high school until the first of January, when she will resume her course in the Industrial Institute in Salisbury. The session has been delayed in opening on account of the new dormitory not being completed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McMurray are receiving congratulations of their friends over the coming of a wee little lady to be not only a permanent visitor in the home but a perpetual source of joy to her parents.

Mrs. James R. Cantelou has returned from her former home in Cochran, Ga., where she went to attend the funeral of her father, Mr. D. C. Walker, a prominent and honorable citizen of that place. Mr. Walker died October 2, having been an invalid for several years. His sons and daughters are Mrs. James R. Cantelou of Edgefield, Miss Annie Walker and Mr. J. A. Walker, a banker in Cochran, Mr. W. T. Walker, a druggist of Savannah and Mr. R. L. Walker, an eminent musician of Macon, Ga.

Mrs. D. C. Walker, the beloved wife and Miss Annie Walker returned from Cochran with Mrs. Cantelou and are visiting her here.

Tillman-Wright

The following is a copy of invitations that have been issued to an approaching marriage that is the chief topic of conversation in Edgefield at this time:

Mrs. Mamie Norris Tillman requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter Helen Poindexter to

Mr. Preston Wright on Wednesday the third of November at half after eight in the evening at The First Baptist Church Edgefield, South Carolina

The Economy Store.

On our second page this week will be found in red ink one of the most attractive advertisements this paper has ever carried. Attractive not only from a mechanical or artistic standpoint but also attractive because it carries the announcement of great bargains in seasonable merchandise. The Economy Store, Edgefield's latest store, is offering some very low prices in stylish wearing apparel for women, men and boys. They bought largely before the decline in the price of cotton and in order to meet their bills that are falling due The Economy Store will make heavy sacrifices. The Economy Store is located in the new hotel building next door west of the store of Stewart & Kernaghan. Visit the new store at once. It will pay you.

Death of Mr. C. M. Waters.

Edgefield was deeply saddened when the announcement of the sudden death of Mr. Charlie Waters was received here. He had not been strong since he had influenza last winter, followed by pneumonia, his health having failed greatly in the past two months. He was up and about the house last Sunday but remarked to his wife about three o'clock in the afternoon that he would lie down for a short time. Soon afterwards Mrs. Waters entered the room and found her husband dead.

Mr. Waters was born and reared in Edgefield county, where his ancestors have lived for many generations. He was 31 years of age and was the only son of the lamented Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Waters. About five years ago Mr. Waters embarked in the wholesale grocery business in Augusta and had been very successful, residing at 925 Broad Street. About a year ago he united with the First Christian church of Augusta, the pastor, Dr. Wilson, conducting the funeral in the Baptist church here Tuesday morning. Mr. Waters had many splendid qualities and because of his generosity of spirit and genial disposition he was beloved wherever he was known. About four years ago he married Miss Alice Atkinson of the Republican section of this county, by whom he is survived. They had no children. Mr. Waters is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. G. W. Bussev. of Modoc; Mrs. J. M. Bradley of McCormick, and Mrs. J. H. Ramsey of Springfield. The interment took place in the family square in the Edgefield cemetery Tuesday morning.

THE ONLY GENUINE ARNICA SALVE

Mays-Blake, Marriage.

The country home of Captain and Mrs. B. Mays was the scene of a beautiful marriage occasion on Tuesday at 1 o'clock, an auspicious hour when the sun stood high in the heavens and shone as a benediction on those who are entering into this holy alliance.

The day was a beautiful one when Miss Margaret Eugenia Mays, whom we all know and love as Madge, and Mr. Eugene Hood Blake were united in marriage.

As the guests entered they were greeted in the front hall and passed into the parlor where an array of gifts without cards were to be seen, a chest of silver from the bride's family, cut glass and handsome china and many miscellaneous articles of value and taste. As the music began, with Mrs. Mamie N. Tillman at the piano, the door of the opposite room was opened, and a scene of loveliness greeted the eyes, a room made all white and green with an improvised altar in white chrysanthemums, behind which glowed many candles.

As the door opened, three dear little girls were standing near the columns of the altar, Elizabeth Cochran and Ella Allen Morrall, flower girls carrying golden rods, and Margaret Cochran with the ring.

The first to enter was Miss Clara Blake, sister of the groom. Following her was the groom with Dr. Laurie Blake as man. The bride, accompanied by her sister, Miss Ella Mays as honor was the last to enter, followed by Mr. Blake at the altar, back of which stood Dr. E. J. Smith, the bride's pastor at Greenwood, who was the officiating minister.

At the close of the ceremony the congratulations to the groom by the people who knew Miss Mays were extended with unusual sincerity and cordiality. Miss Mays, since her graduation has been teaching and rendering most splendid service, winning the esteem and love of the many new friends she met and returning the affection of her early friends. It is seldom that one hears so many expressions of honest good wishes for a bride as have been heard regarding this beloved daughter of Edgefield.

Mr. Blake comes of one of South Carolina's most honored families, is a graduate of the University of South Carolina and a successful young business man of Greenwood.

As the ceremony was finished the guests were invited into the dining room and there served a bountiful and dainty salad course, and souvenirs of the occasion were presented each one.

Coffee and pound cake were also served and green and white mints.

The guests present were relatives of the two families, Mrs. J. E. Luke and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Durden of Augusta; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Adams and Miss Catherine Adams of Meriwether, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Blake, Misses Clara and Helen Blake, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Gambrell and C. A. Mays, Mr. and Mrs. William Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Blake, Mrs. E. B. Peay, Mrs. W. L. Hood, Dr. Laurie Blake, Miss Etta Calhoun of Greenwood; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bryson of Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. James McCothran and Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Hunt of Newberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake will spend a month in Florida.

Golden Wedding Celebration.

Monday, October 11th was an occasion of much joy and happiness in the hospitable home of Dr. and Ben Adams of Plum Branch.

This beautiful sun shiny day seemed typical of the married life of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Adams, Sr., which was the celebration of their 50th marriage anniversary, their golden wedding.

The friends and relatives gathered from far and near, Edgefield, McCormick and some from Greenville, from eleven till one-thirty.

The hall and parlor were tastefully decorated in smilax and golden rod. Mrs. Adams was Miss Hettie Mims, daughter of Capt. Ben Mims, much beloved in his day. This bride and groom of fifty years were the recipient of many useful and various presents, which shall be mementoes of their kindred and friends through out their remaining years.

This lovable woman and kind-hearted man, we believe, felt as young and happy as on their wedding day, mingling with their friends and expressing what joy it was to have them there.

After seeing and talking with those whom we had not seen for quite a while, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Miss Helen Dorn from Edgefield and a great niece of the "bride," the crowd marched out to the bountifully spread table under the shade trees by the side piazza, then you must find your plate with your own name written on a golden heart in it, then sit down to this dinner which consisted of the most delightful barbecued hash, pork and kid, prepared by Mr. Jasper Parks. The salads, Irish potatoes, rice, tomatoes, iced tea and coffee were prepared by Dr. Adams' wife.

As this meal which was much enjoyed by all who sat at this table of sixty or more, drew to a close short talks from Col. Jas. Talbert, Messrs. John McKie and Wideman, were also enjoyed.

Too soon the hour to bid adieu arrived as Col. Talbert remarked he "would like to stay all the time."

This day shall always be remembered by all who were present, and wishing many more happy anniversaries for this couple.
